

NOTE TO TEACHERS

I am a firm believer that visuals and models are key to help little learners be successful and understand what is expected of them. Start the year strong with these visuals and emergent reader to help your students practice and use manners. Spending that time at the beginning of the year is crucial and helps to build a strong and positive classroom community.

Use these visuals to model and practice different manners and display them or have them handy to flip through during the school year. It is such a powerful tool to point to instead of always having to use your voice. Also great to revisit and discuss after long breaks.

After you use the visuals read the emergent reader with your students and have them keep it in their book box or take it home to discuss with their families. Then everyone is on the same page!

closed.

We take turns
and wait
patiently.

We wait
patiently for
our turn to talk.

We say sorry
to help our friends feel better.

Manners are Magical

Manners are important. We use them everyday. When you use manners you show others that you care about them and their feelings.

We raise our hand and wait for the adult.
